Let's Pull Together to Restore Children's Library

The damage done by the pre-dawn blaze that raced through the Children's Library Wednesday cannot be fully measured in dollars and cents. While fiscal estimates at first appear to be over $100,000, including the building and rare book collection, the real tragedy is the impact the fire has on the community itself.

Many worthwhile programs have been suspended. Books that have and would have given their readers countless hours of pleasure can never be replaced.

For many, the Children's Library provided a much-needed entertainment or escape from the humdrum of everyday living. For the time being, this too has been suspended. Others making use of the facility for academic pursuits will have to look elsewhere.

The Freeman, realizing the burden that this tragedy has dropped on the shoulders of the community, is taking a step forward, offering the services of its office facilities and staff members to undertake a fund drive to help the library and the community-at-large recover part of its loss.

Beginning Wednesday, Nov. 26, the night before Thanksgiving, The Freeman and library officials will conduct a Beggar's Night, with the help of community volunteers, to initiate the drive. From then on until Christmas Eve, The Freeman building will be a collection center for all monetary donations. Volunteers may contact the city library for full details.

The Freeman feels that the people of the greater Kingston area will open their hearts, and more importantly, their pocketbooks to this worthy cause.

40 Per Cent Drop in Taxes

By Jon Powers

TOWN OF LLOYD

Economic benefits rather than environmental concerns may be the deciding factor in determining whether Ulster County residents ultimately support nuclear development in the towns of Lloyd and Esopus.

The Energy Research and Development Authority (ERDA) has emphasized the tax benefits of atomic construction since it first set its sights on the 2,300-acre Lloyd-Esopus parcel 2½ years ago. With the ERDA study now completed, with utilities seeking new sources of power and with municipal budgets climbing every year, the economic issue assumes greater importance than ever before.

If one or more atomic plants are built at the Lloyd-Esopus site by a tax-paying entity, there would be a significant impact on tax rates throughout Ulster County. In the towns of Lloyd and Esopus, the effect would be devastating.

The full value on taxable real property in Ulster County this year is slightly more than $1.2 billion. The full value of one atomic plant is estimated at $800 million, and ERDA has acknowledged that it is physically possible to construct two plants at the Lloyd-Esopus site by 1985. If that occurs, Ulster County's full value will be more than double the present total.

ERDA estimates that two atomic plants would reduce county taxes by 40 per cent in all 20 towns. Some figures compiled by the Freeman—showing 1975 county tax rates and the projected rate with two atomic plants in Lloyd—follow:

City of Kingston—$24.72—$14.84
Hurley—$47.80—$28.68
Marbletown—$59.75—$35.85
Rosendale—$65.18—$39.11
Saugerties—$51.22—$30.74
Ulster—$65.19—$39.12

City, town, village and school tax rates outside Lloyd and Esopus would not be affected by nuclear development in there, only the taxes paid for county purposes. But there would be reductions across the board in the two towns where plants would most likely be located.

Lloyd & Esopus
The Town of Lloyd has an assessed value of just over $10 million. With an equalization rate of 18, an $800 million atomic plant would raise the town's assessed value to $154 million, or about 15 times higher than the present assessed value. If all other factors remain constant—and they never do—the town tax rate would drop from $45.18 to $2.92 per $1,000 of assessed valuation.

Two atomic plants would increase the assessed value to $298 million and would reduce town taxes to $1.44 per $1,000 of assessed valuation.

Highland

The same two plants would reduce taxes in the Highland Central School District from $163.60 to about $4.60 per $1,000 of assessed valuation.

If one of those plants is built in the Town of Esopus, the town tax rate would drop from $80.67 in 1975 to $4.74 in 1985. If two plants are built, taxes in Esopus would be approximately $2.44 per $1,000 of assessed valuation.

All this assumes that full value and assessed value in Esopus and Lloyd remains at 1975 levels, that the equalization rates remain unchanged, and that the town budgets remain the same. All are unlikely occurrences, but any reasonable change should not significantly alter the overall picture.

More importantly, all this assumes that any nuclear development in Lloyd-Esopus will be undertaken by a tax-paying company (either an individual utility or a consortium of utilities). Considering the expense of large scale nuclear development, it is unlikely that one company would undertake the project alone.

If a state of federal authority—such as the Power Authority of the State of New York, which has filed applications to build a nuclear plant in Cementon in Greene County—decides to build, tax benefits would be negligible, since they pay taxes only on the value of the land before construction. In that event, Esopus and Lloyd would be saddled with whatever problems may arise out of construction and operation of an atomic plant, with little or no economic benefits. Property owners in their areas of the county would see few immediate benefits from nuclear development.

Opposition Futile?
In the long run, public opinion may not have much of an effect on a company or government agency determined to build, and although the public has some input in the application process, it doesn't have much say at all in the final decision. For that reason, the plan's critics are directing their attention to what they consider very serious deficiencies in ERDA's assessment of the environmental and safety factors involved in nuclear development, and are urging a government imposed moratorium on nuclear development and greater attention to alternative sources of energy.

UPI DATELINE

October Living Hike Up

WASHINGTON — The cost of living climbed 0.7 per cent in October, the third largest monthly increase this year, the Labor Department said today.

Higher prices for new cars, fuel oil, dairy products, coffee, clothing, mortgage rates and auto insurances caused the overall increase, which was slightly higher than most economists expected.

The increase, which translates into an annual rate of 8.4 per cent, was 0.2 per cent larger than September but far below the 1975 inflationary peak set in July when consumer prices rose 1.2 per cent.

Franco Dead at 82

MADRID — Generalissimo Francisco Franco died today at the age of 82, and in a political last testament he had typed himself as the end drew near proved he was as authoritarian in death as he was in life.

Franco, last of the right wing European dictators who rose to power on the eve of World War II, ruled Spain with an iron hand for 36 years while his political enemies went into exile or hiding.

In his last testament, crudely typed between Oct. 17 when he first fell ill and Oct. 20 when death appeared certain, he made it clear those policies should continue.

Reagan Announces Candidacy

WASHINGTON — Ronald Reagan, once a top movie boxoffice attraction and now billed as the star of Republican conservatism, announced his candidacy for president of the United States today with an attack on the "insensitive" federal bureaucracy.

The 64-year-old former two-term California governor announced his long-anticipated candidacy against President Ford for the 1976 GOP nomination.

His campaign is expected to provide the strongest drive for conservatives for the White House in more than a decade.

Caroline Cancels Party

LONDON — Warning telephone calls from her mother have had a dampening effect on the social life of Caroline Kennedy and she has canceled plans for an 18th birthday party next week, the Daily Mirror said Thursday.

"The party is off. I'm not holding one next week, and that's it," the newspaper's gossip columnist Paul Cullen called Miss Kennedy as saying.

Cullen reported last week that Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis, in a series of transatlantic telephone calls, gave her eldest daughter a sharp scolding for going to too many parties and paying scant attention to her art studies at Sotheby's, the art auctioneer.

UNICEF Is Worried

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — The U.N. Children's Fund is worried that Americans outraged by the General Assembly's anti-Zionism resolution will take it out on the fund and its Christmas cards — to the detriment of impoverished children.

Officials say it's too soon to know the effect on card sales, but there already has been reaction.

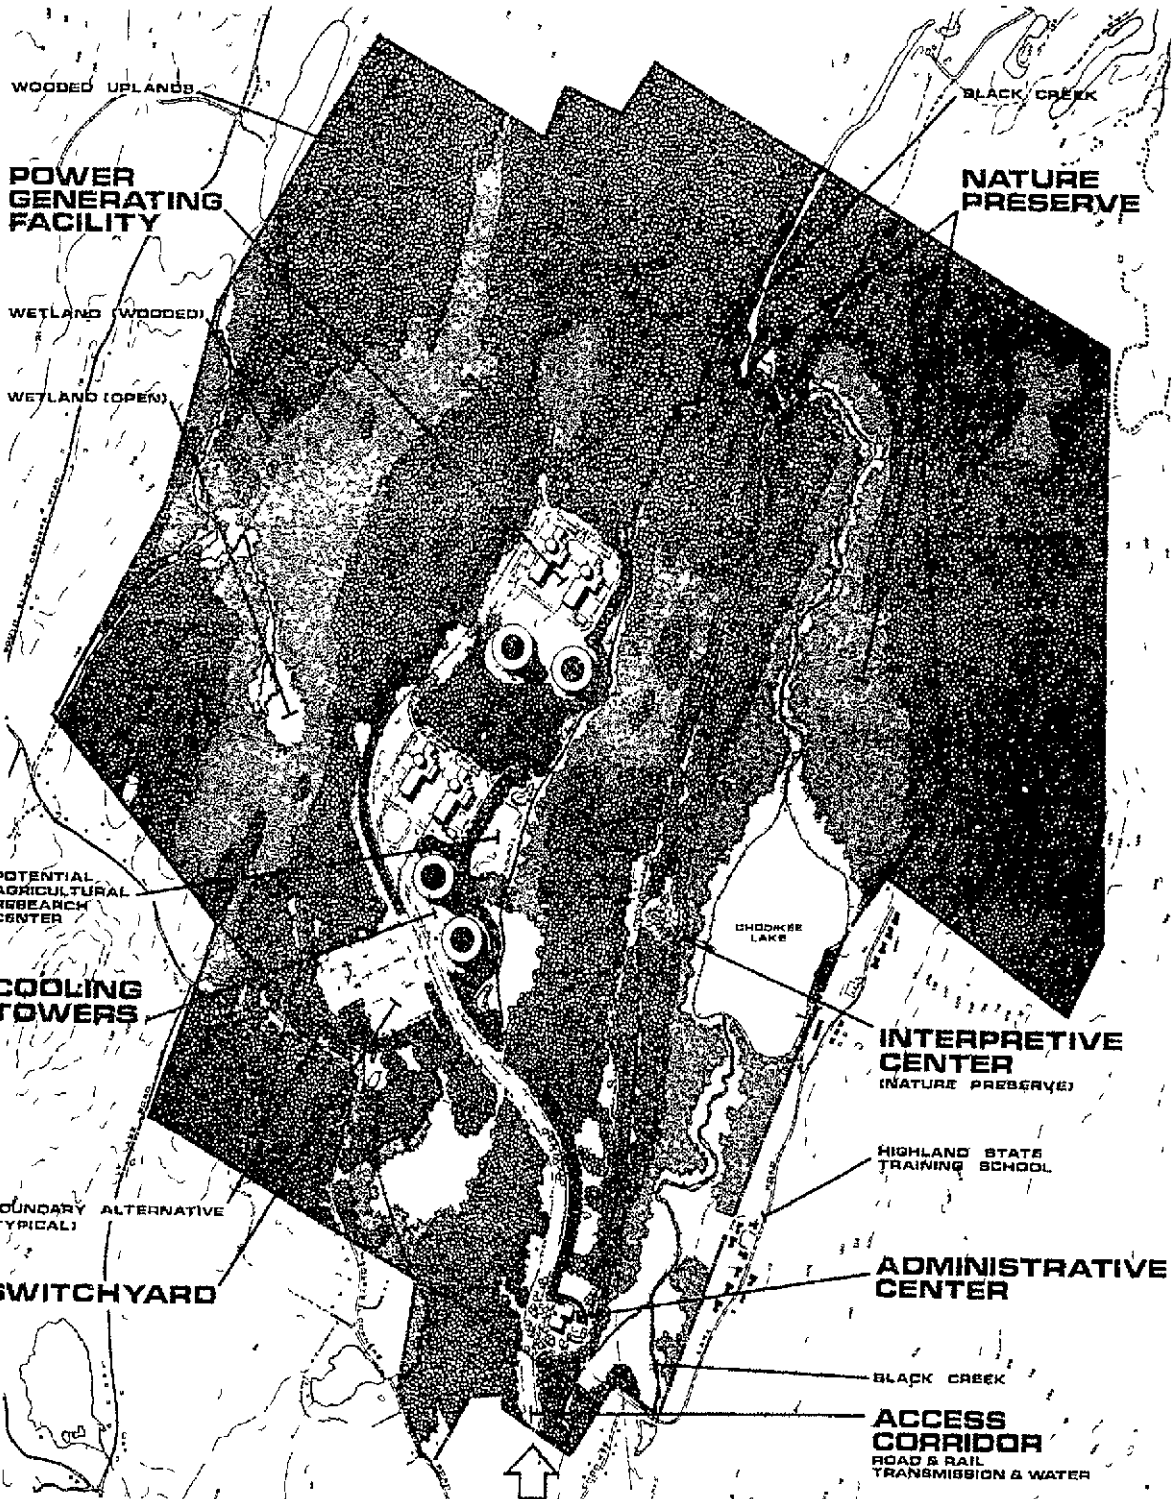

The assembly declared Zionism a form of racism Nov. 10, touching off a furor in the United States.

Fighting Resumes in Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Shooting between rival political militias echoed through Beirut today, threatening to undermine a French envoy's peace talks with Lebanese leaders.

Fighting resumed in many areas of the Lebanese capital following violence Wednesday that killed eight persons. The victims included a British businessman murdered by gunmen who apparently mistook him for an American.

The new outbreak pushed the casualty total for seven months of clashes between Christians and Muslims to nearly 4,100 dead and 8,500 wounded.

ILLUSTRATIVE PLAN

Chopping Begins Friday

By Hugh Reynolds

KINGSTON
Ulster County legislators meet in executive session tomorrow afternoon for their first collective look at the proposed 1976 budget and the axe is expected to fall.

Public reaction against a projected 82 per cent increase in taxes has been vociferous and the legislators are expected to be in a stinging mood when they meet at 3 p.m. tomorrow.

Not that the Finance Committee under Chairman Peter J. Savago wasn't tight-fisted in compiling the record $80.7 million budget. Savago and his committee pledged before election day that there would be no raises granted other than those which employees had coming on automatic steps or those which had been previously negotiated.

For the most part the committee stuck to its pledge. County Judge Raymond J. Mino, for instance, put in for a raise from his current $37,075 per year, asking for $40,000. He didn't get it.

Same for Family Court Judges Hugh Elwyn and Bernard Feeney, both paid at the same rate as Mino, both asking for $42,000.

Surrogate Judge Arthur

Davis apparently became familiar with the mood of the electorate during his successful campaign for reelection last month. He didn't ask for a raise.

District Attorney Francis J. Vogt isn't eligible for a raise this year (he can only get salary increases in the years that he is up for election) but Vogt did try to get his first assistant some more money. The Finance Committee turned thumbs down on a $1,560 raise for Michael Kavenaugh who now gets paid $24,000 as Vogt's main man.

County Attorneys Abe Molyneux and John Lynch also felt the pinch. Molyneux, now getting paid $16,500 a year asked for $18,000. Lynch, now getting $11,100, asked for $12,000. Both men will continue at their present salaries.

Not so for County Clerk Albert Spada didn't ask for a raise above his current $15,145 but the Finance Committee gave him a hike to $20,000 anyway.

Same for former Saugerties GOP Chief Henry Breitenbach over in the Sheriff's Department. Breitenbach went from $12,000 a year to $13,500.

Overall, the mood is one of austerity, however. A $75,000 paving job on the proposed county parking lot behind the county office building (the Buick property) was nixed.

Still, the legislators, who have had the budget to study for more than a week, are sure to find some way of cutting that whopping 82 per cent tax increase which in Kingston will mean an increase of at least $21 per thousand, the largest tax increase in city history.

The $2 million the budget committee has earmarked in contingency in case New York City defaults is sure to be a target of debate when the legislators meet behind closed doors, especially if the federal government bails out the city. Some legislators, contacted by the Freeman, feel revenues have been underestimated which could further reduce the tax liability.

Nobody expects it to be an "easy budget." "Eighty two per cent is an awful place to start," one legislator told the Freeman.

A public hearing on the budget will be held Dec. 1 at 7 p.m. at the county office building.

Raichle: 'Freeze Wages'

KINGSTON
Clarence (Dubby) Raichle, alderman-elect of the First Ward has called on the Koenig Administration to declare a temporary "salary freeze" for the upcoming 1976 budget and Raichle says that should include the salaries of aldermen, too.

A former county legislator, Raichle said that the "increased costs of living" demands that "the tightest economical measures are absolutely necessary at this time."

Raichle also points to the unemployment situation in Kingston which he says has increased from 2,291 unemployed persons in November of 1974 to 4,877 this year.

As for a raise for the aldermen, Raichle says he sought the office knowing what it paid ($2,650 a year) and "strongly abhors any increase between election day and the first of the year."

At Fair Street Nursery School Night

KINGSTON Fair Street Nursery School's first Parent Night will be held tonight at 8 p.m. at the school, Mrs. Freida Dinges, president of the Board of Directors, will preside.

Two topics are on the agenda for discussion. Mrs. Barbara Bonder, a teacher at Fair Street School, will summarize a two-day conference she recently attended on Dr. Jean Piaget's theory of developmental stages of early childhood, and show a film strip demonstrating the concepts revealed by Piaget's observation and study of his own children's growth and mental development.

Mrs. Peggie Mabie who teaches at the Campus School at the State University, New Paltz, will be the other speaker, presenting Dr. Catherine Stern's Structural Arithmetic. This is a method of presenting basic mathematical facts about our number system concretely. Dr. Stern's carefully structured games include an element of discovery, and enhance understanding of numbers and arithmetic combinations. Mrs. Mabie will also show a film demonstrating the use of Dr. Stern's Structural Arithmetic materials. The materials themselves may be seen as they are in use at Fair Street Nursery School.

A Parent Representative will be elected from each class to serve for a year on the Board of Directors.

'Walkout' In Portugal

LISBON, Portugal (UPI) — Prime Minister Jose Pinheiro de Azevedo's government walked off the job today, accusing the military of jeopardizing Portugal's future by its failure to impose law and order.

The decision by the sixth provisional government since April 1974 to suspend itself without actually resigning was without precedent.

The cabinet accused President Francisco da Costa

Gomes and the military of failing to provide minimum security for the government and vowed not to return to their jobs until the situation was corrected.

Communist-controlled labor unions and neighborhood committees called on workers to lay down their tools and prepare to march on the presidential palace to demand a Soviet-style "peoples' government."

Workers at the Lisnave shipyards, Lisbon's largest industrial complex, said they were holding a conference to decide their course of action. Similar meetings were reported in other plants and industrial areas.

A Socialist spokesman said the cabinet acted to pressure the military into moving against disintegration of its command structure and the open anti-government attitude of the military's security chief and other key officers.

Winners Remain Winners . . . Board of Elections Tally

KINGSTON

Winners remained winners and losers remained losers in the final vote tabulations released by the Ulster County Board of Elections Tuesday.

The only major change—one that was announced by the Board of Elections more than a week ago—involved the District 1 race for Ulster County Legislature, where incumbent Democrat Louis Resnick was presumed the winner on election night. A recount gave the victory to Republican John F. Geary.

Two of the most hotly contested battles occurred in the Town of Ulster, and the final tallies confirmed the election night winners. Incumbent Republican Supervisor Carmine Sabino won reelection over Democrat George Starkman by an 18-vote margin. Democrat Robert Mitchell was a four-vote victor over Ralph Haynor for the highway superintendent position.

Several other close races for Ulster County Legislature were affirmed by the election board. In District 2, a recount gave Democrat Robert Ullman a five-vote victory over Republican Raymond Dunn. Ullman led Dunn by 10 votes on election night.

In District 6, Vernon Frost was a narrow, 15-vote winner over Democrat Joseph Wolf for the third seat from that district on election night. A recount extended Frost's margin to 25 votes.

In District 8, incumbent Thomas Roach maintained his lead over fellow Republican Louis Bevier for the fourth and final seat from that District. Roach led by 10 votes on election night; nine votes on Tuesday.

In addition, the final results for District 8 did result in a change in position among two of the winners, normally not a significant occurrence except it involved Legislature chairman Peter J. Savago. Savago traditionally leads the Republican ticket in that area, but election night results found him in third place behind Democrats Victor McCord and Thomas Nyquist. In the final tally, however, he moved into second place by 13 votes, but still fell some 500 votes short of McCord's total.

Final tallies in the County Clerk's race showed incumbent Republican Albert Spada with 28,814 votes, Democrat Lewis C. Kirschner with 23,398 and Conservative William Hegeman with 2,344.

The final Surrogate Judge totals are Arthur A. Davis with 29,883 and William C. Mullany with 22,373.

Ulster County Coroner William S. Keyser retained his 3-2 victory margin over his two opponents.

In the city races, Mayor Francis R. Koenig received 6,346 votes; Republican William Darling had 3,175 and Conservative Bernard Singer had 1,316.

Incumbent Alderman-at-Large T. Robert Gallo recorded 5,883 votes; Republican Emily Johnson had 3,423 and Conservative Roberta Kolts had 1,058.

The city hall question was defeated, 4,314 to 3,266 (with 3,585 blank ballots) and the charter revision question was defeated, 4,909 to 2,089 (with 4,176 blanks).

In the only closely contested Common Council race, Democrat Emilio A. Primo defeated Thomas Joy. Primo clung to a nine-vote margin on election night.

'Nation of Israel Lives Forever'

By Carl Graham

KINGSTON—Kingston's Jewish community Wednesday night pledged more than $70,000 in bonds for Israel, saw two community leaders honored for their work, and heard a retired Israeli general thank them for their "love and concern for the State of Israel."

The occasion was the annual Bonds for Israel dinner at Temple Emanuel, this year marking the 25th anniversary of the sale of bonds that go to aid Israel's war-torn economy, establish job opportunities for immigrants, and help finance industrial and agricultural projects.

Honored with plaques for their "outstanding efforts in behalf of the Kingston Jewish Community and their leadership in promoting Israel's economic development" were accountant Charles Ronder and paper firm executive Sidney Spiegel.

The featured speaker was Major General Nechemia Kain, who held several important posts in the high command of the Israeli army before his recent retirement.

Kain traced the history of Israel, where he went as a refugee shortly before World War II. "The people of the United States understand and appreciate what a revolution means," he told the audience of 120.

Kain reviewed the political, military and economic aspects of life in present-day Israel, saying it had been badly hit by the recession and inflation that has affected most of the world, only worse. "The people of the Middle East do not prosper," the graying, 50-year-old retired officer assured them.

Turning to the recently concluded cease-fire agreement, Kain said "We are in the first stage of an agreement we hope will bring a lasting peace. Personally, I'm not sure I would have signed it."

"I am worried over what the future has in store, so it is not pleasant to tell you that the State of Israel will have to rely on military might for years to come."

Kain called on the audience to "invest in Israel bonds not to the extent of giving up small comforts, but to the extent of making it hurt. When it hurts you know you have done something for our country."

He assured the audience that "The nation of Israel lives and will live forever."

Ronder's and Spiegel's plaques were presented by Arthur Ewig (Ronder's father-in-law) and Aaron Klein, who were last year's recipients of the awards.

Abraham Tannenbaum, a New York City attorney, described the various kinds of Israel bonds available, noting that investors are protected by re-purchase agreements at full market value in case of death.

Introduced from the audience were Lawrence Quilty, chairman of the board of directors of Rondout National Bank, and William Stevens, president of Kingston Trust Company, both of whom pledged $5,000 in bond purchases by their institutions.

Also introduced from the audience were Ann Brewer, Hadassah president, and Benjamin Schecter, chairman of the United Jewish Appeal, the Israel Bond Drive's "sister organization."

Seymour "Sy" Werbalowsky served as chairman, with George Jacobson as co-chairman. The invocation was by Rabbi Jonathan Eichhorn of Temple Emanuel, grace after the meal was by Rabbi Aryeh-Ben Lupkin of Congregation Ahavath Israel, and the benediction by Rabbi Basil Herring of Congregation Agudas Achim.

Getting Down to Tax Business

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Adjusting to President Ford's "disappointing" announcement on federal participation in a New York City bailout, Gov. Hugh L. Carey and legislative leaders were ready today to get down to the business of approving new taxes.

Ford's statement Wednesday called for "concrete action" only on city taxes, but on returning from a two-day Washington lobbying trip, Carey made it clear that he would also press for action on his $872 million state tax package.

"I want to clean up gimmicky in New York State once and for all," Carey said. "Let's remember the health of the state of New York is tied to that of the city of New York," Carey said, "we've learned that lesson."

The first item on today's agenda was approval of an extra penny city sales tax to provide $200 million to help avert default. But a problem remained in the Democratic Assembly where lawmakers from the city pushed for an increase in the commuter tax.

Senate Majority Leader Warren M. Anderson was solidly behind suburban Republican lawmakers who favored the sales tax increase.

Carey met with Assembly Democrats Wednesday night to hear their opposition and, informed sources said, to let them know their position was in vain.

The conference was described by one legislator as "a gripe session with the governor about budget matters in general ... but, the implication was there that a sales tax was coming."

However, Carey was met with strong and vocal resistance to the additional sales levy, possibly meaning a deadlock over the issue. Carey returned to Albany after two days of lobbying in Washington for a House bill providing federal loan guarantees to keep the city from default.

He told reporters Ford had made "a disappointing statement ... we had anticipated he would take a decisive step on his own."

"He hasn't given us the go ahead, but at least the stop sign has turned from red to amber," Carey said.

He said he would "take the heat" and push for city taxes. Ford perpetuated several days of suspense over his possible backing of federal participation in a plan to save the city when he said "if New York continues to move toward fiscal responsibility" he would "review the situation early next week."

Democrats interpreted the President's position to be a call for action on state taxes, but Anderson told reporters he had talked with the President personally.

"The President said the statement he issued was very carefully phrased and carefully indicated that he was not endorsing any state tax program," Anderson said.

Anderson had made several phone calls to Republican lawmakers in Washington and to the President's advisors to warn Ford to steer clear of the issue of state taxes Carey had proposed to close a contested $600-$700 million state budget gap.

With the GOP in control of the Senate, Ford's insistence on state taxes as a prerequisite to federal help would undermine Republican opposition to new state levies.

Assembly Minority Leader Perry B. Duryea repeated that the state deficit was "manageable" without new taxes, but agreed that the question of the gap "should be addressed."

At the same time, he called for Carey to make public "the $400 million in budget cuts" he proposed last week when he estimated that the state faced a $600-$700 million cash short-fall by April 1.

That remark prompted Speaker Stanley Steingut to say, "Mr. Duryea is turning out to be the Ronald Reagan of Albany."

Later, Anderson quipped, "What Mr. Steingut means is that he is the best looking."

Jean Protest Works

Workmen remove billboard showing woman's figure wearing pair of "Jesus Jeans," in New York City following strong protest from the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of New York. The jeans, made by an Italian manufacturer and which had been scheduled to go on sale here soon, have the Italian phrase "Chi mi ama mi segua" (He who loves me, follows me) written across the rear. The phrase is a biblical quote. One local store which was supposed to sell the jeans has canceled its Spring order and other retailers are being asked to follow suit. (UPI)

Dairylea Plant Manager Faces Probation, Fire

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — William T. Vaughan, a plant manager for the Dairylea Cooperative, faces three years' probation and a $1,000 fine for perjury, Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz said Wednesday.

He had pleaded guilty in State Supreme Court in Albany to a charge of third-degree perjury.

He was indicted after testifying falsely before an Albany County grand jury in October 1974 about an alleged milk adulteration scheme involving the addition of powdered skim milk from 1967 to 1974.

Eleven other persons were indicted on charges of filing false instruments in connection with the alleged adulteration, but state Supreme Court Justice Norman L. Harvey of Plattsburgh threw out those indictments Oct. 16.

Harvey said the false reports filed by the cooperative did not constitute "false instruments" under the penal law. He let stand the perjury indictment against Vaughan. Lefkowitz has appealed the dismissals.

Vaughan, currently manager of the Dairylea plant in Middlebury, Conn., was manager of the Woodside, Queens, plant in 1972 and 1973. He now lives in Watertown, Conn.

Marchi Wants Lottery Refunds

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — State Sen. John J. Marchi says holders of an estimated $2.1 million worth of tickets for the state's "frozen" lottery should be given refunds.

Gov. Hugh L. Carey ordered lottery operations suspended last month after it was discovered that duplicate tickets had been printed for at least one drawing. Outside consultants are currently studying the problems.

"The men and women who bought tickets for the drawings of Oct. 23, Oct. 30 and Oct. 31 should have the chance to get their money back while the administration struggles with the required overhaul of the lottery system," the Staten Island Republican said Wednesday.

Marchi repeated his previous calls for the removal of Gerald Bruno, the Democratic governor's former campaign advance man, as director of the lottery.

A Lovely Afternoon

A young couple enjoys the view from the stern of the Cape May-Lewes ferry as the boat makes its 16-mile crossing of the Delaware Bay on an Indian summer afternoon. Crowded with passengers in summer months, the New Jersey ferry boats are nearly empty in the fall, allowing for quiet, contemplative moments. (UPI)

Railroad Loopholes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The country's profitable railroads would be richer by $18 million per year for the next 50 years under a little-noticed amendment recently inserted in a tax revision bill by the House Ways and Means Committee.

The amendment — one of hundreds in the tax bill now before the House — is an example of how what have become known as "loopholes" find their way into the tax law.

The extra money it would give railroads, through lower taxes, amounts to about 8 per cent of the total tax paid by all railroads in 1974.

While many marginally profitable railroads would have their tax bills wiped out by the amendment, the greatest reductions would go to those lines that make the greatest profits, and therefore now pay the highest taxes: Southern Railway, Union Pacific, Norfolk & Western, Chessie System and Burlington Northern.

When the amendment was discussed in the committee, the only major voice raised against it was a Republican, Rep. William Steiger of Wisconsin, who called it an "unconscionable" giveaway to railroads he believes do not need it.

Proponents said that even the taxpaying railroads will go bankrupt if they do not get money to modernize. Congress is working on a $2 billion plan to save a number of bankrupt railroads.

Elimination of the provision was not included in the list of reform amendments that Ways and Means Committee liberals want the right to offer on the House floor.

The new tax break would be brought about by allowing railroads to depreciate for tax purposes rail line grading and tunnels in place prior to 1969.

The 2 per cent per year depreciation schedule would apply to the value the grading or tunnel bore at the time it was cut; or, if it was cut prior to the 1913 income tax amendment, the depreciation would apply to the estimated value in 1913.

Under present Internal Revenue Service rules, no depreciation is allowed on any item that has an indefinite life. Since grading and tunnels presumably would last for centuries, no depreciation was allowed until 1969, when Congress set up the 50-year schedule.

At the insistence of former Rep. John Byrnes, R-Wis., then the ranking GOP member of the House Ways and Means Committee, the tax break was limited to tunnels and grading cut in 1969 and later. Almost immediately, a railroad lobbying effort began to gain the same treatment for pre-1969 tunnels and grading.

Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, Ill., said he offered the amendment this year at the request of the Association of American Railroads. As a congressman from Chicago, the nation's railroad hub, Rostenkowski said he felt obligated to offer the amendment although he had "no pride of authorship."

"These people are in my district," he said of the railroads. "They're my constituents. I can't ignore them."

He said he did not work actively for the amendment, but the railroads "apparently did their homework" with the rest of the committee.

The Rostenkowski amendment was approved by voice vote. On the final night of the Ways and Means markup session Nov. 4, an effort by Steiger to delete the amendment from the bill was defeated on a 17-14 roll call vote.

Patrick Matthews, a vice president and lobbyist for the Association of American Railroads, said the amendment was a matter of tax equity, and "God knows, they need this money to keep their track in shape."

Library Fire Probe Continues

Police Beat

KINGSTON — There are signs that an "accelerant" (flammable liquid) was used to start a highly suspicious fire that virtually gutted the Children's Library on Broadway Wednesday morning, according to Kingston Fire Chief William J. Schreiber.

However, the blaze has not yet been definitely determined to have been the result of arson, Schreiber said, explaining that "it may have been carelessness."

Investigation of the blaze by city detectives and the fire department arson investigator is continuing.

There has been no update on preliminary damage estimate of more than $100,000.

Thick Fog

Meanwhile, in other are police matters: "The fog was so thick you could cut it," one police officer said today following a two-vehicle crash in the Town of New Paltz in which a 33-year-old Kingston man was seriously injured when he turned in front of an oncoming auto.

Alan R. Sheard Jr. of P.O. Box 374, Kingston, was admitted to the intensive care unit at Benedictine Hospital following the 7 a.m. crash. No report on his condition was immediately available.

New Paltz Police said Sheard was driving south on Route 32 when he made a left turn at the intersection with Horsenden Road in front of a pickup truck driven by William Hargrove, 32, of New Paltz. Sheard's vehicle was pushed 55 feet down the roadway, police said. He was ticketed for failure to yield the right of way. Hargrove was not reported injured.

Bungalow Fire

Fire Wednesday night gutted a two-story bungalow on Cauldwell Street in Port Ewen. Killed in the blaze was a dog owned by the occupant of the building, Jack Fitzgerald, who was not home when the blaze broke out. Port Ewen Fire Chief Clark Maine said the fire, which was well advanced before it was spotted, apparently started in the area of a porch from a wood stove.

Some 35 firemen were at the scene from about 8 to 10 p.m.

Most Kids Are Good

When two youngsters ran roughshod through the Pine Plains Central School in Dutchess County last weekend, causing almost $250,000 in damage, more than half of the school's population came to the rescue.

About 300 of the youngsters spent most of Monday cleaning up the mess and doing a lot of repairing. They did their work after school was dismissed for the day because of the extensive damage.

The Freeman pats those 300 youngsters on the back. If one stops to think that 300 good kids attempted to undo what a couple of rotten apples did, then there's a lot of hope for the future of this country.

The monetary damage to the Pine Plains School will be forgotten before too long. What those students did on Monday should always be remembered. They're a credit to their community.

Rape Does Occur

"One of the reasons that men continue to rape is that they continue to get away with it."

These words give a proper summation to a most serious problem—here and throughout the country.

The Freeman recently presented a series on rape; how it happens, the statistics showing that so few are even arrested for the crime; and ways of preventing rape.

Make no mistake about it. The problem is here, it's a massive one and it will not be cleared overnight.

The Freeman urges more diligence by law enforcement agencies. It also reminds women to follow the advice given in the series. Be alert, be ready and be safe.

Rape is not so much a crime of sex. It is one of violence.

More Creative Spending

The overtaxed average middle income American winces as he reads of more spending. He knows, by bitter experience, the waste, the duplication, the aimlessness of these funds.

If ever there was a time for creative spending — that time is now. It's a time for trimming away the fat — doing away with waste.

Consider, for instance, the school lunchroom. These fully equipped kitchens produce one meal a day — and meals on wheels programs and senior citizen nutritional programs must find other facilities.

Why not combine the needs and the assets of many factions of the community? The school lunchroom could be preparing supper for senior citizens in the afternoon, to be served at 5 when school is out.

A gourmet cooking class could offer a businessmen's lunch. Driver's education classes could add to this a meals-on-wheels delivery.

There are doubtlessly dozens of areas where the various agencies could cooperate, cutting down capital outlay, stretching dollars farther. The Freeman will happily support any such plan.

Freeman Readers Write

Onteora Situation

Editor, The Freeman:

I am writing in regard to the situation which presently exists between the Onteora Board of Education and the members of the Onteora non-teaching personnel.

I really cannot believe what is going on at this time. My husband, who has been employed by the school for ten years as a custodian, and a dedicated worker; and all the members who work for the school in a non-teaching capacity such as secretaries, cafeteria staff, aides, maintenance, etc., are being subjected to what I consider some truly "dirty dealings" by the board. Without their hard work, the schools could not stay open, as it takes more than teachers to operate a school system. However menial the job may sound, it requires dedication and much hard work, just as other jobs do, and I believe that the employees are entitled to a fair salary for their labors. This does not mean we are asking for ridiculous raises, or superintendent's pay, only a fair amount with which to live on. I have seen many of these people at work over the years, along with my husband, and believe me, their jobs are not easy tasks. It involves much more than mopping a floor.

I am truly discouraged at this point, to see how little they are thought of at pay-raise time. The teachers have all received their raises. Everyone but non-teaching personnel got their increases when they were due. However, we have been stalled off since July when the new contracts usually come out, and have been working since that time with no settlement in view.

We do not want a king's salary for a commoner's work, only enough to get by on without extravagances. At the moment, we have many outstanding debts that are by o means due to luxury. They are the basic necessities for living, such as doctor bills not covered by insurance, dental care, (for although we can neglect or own teeth, we cannot allow our children to let their teeth decay), tires for our car, (which would be impossible to drive without them), and the ever increasing expenses of heating and electricity, which for us has doubled in the last two years while our salary has barely risen. We are not asking that you double our salary, just help us a little. It would be nice to be able to buy a new pair of shoes, when we need them, without a two week deliberation as to whether we should spend the money on them or use it for one of our numerous bills. And, Heaven forbid that we need a major repair in our home or on our car. We immediately go into the state of shock, because on a take home salary of $125 a week for the four of us, and bills which greatly exceed that, there is certainly no such thing as savings. How can you save, when you can't even meet the expenses that are coming in monthly?

I will not go farther, because I doubt that my words will be heard by a callous board that confirms my belief that we worry about the most important one first, me, and the heck with the little guy, he'll manage. Well, maybe we will, but I would like you to have one week of my budgeting, and then see what your opinion is. Is ten years of hard work worth only $125 a week? Maybe you think so, but personally, I think it's a disgrace.

I am not ashamed to sign MY NAME, but if I were a member of the board, I would be.

The Hunting Debate

Editor, The Freeman:

On Sunday, November 9, 1975, as I read your publication "Tempo," I was appalled when I came to the center section which was titled "The Debate Continues, Is It Fair Game?"

Not only is this article dedicated to Anti-Hunting but the author apparently either did not think that the article was worthy of their name or else was ashamed to attach it. Since Cleveland Amory's name was mentioned, am I to believe that this was a paid ad by "The Funds For Animals"? If this was not the case, then am I to assume that this article was written by some misinformed journalist who either did not bother to get the true facts or else did not print them as they should have been? Whichever the case may be, one thing is sure, and that is that the "Anti-Hunting" activists are hard at work to spread their propaganda through the news media.

In closing I would like to say that in reading the last paragraph, if this is what is classed as amusing by the author, then I have no alternative but to assume that they are of very small mind since I as a sportsman find it to be nothing short of a direct attempt to deprive me of one of my rights as an American citizen.

Yours truly,
JOSEPH M. CARLE

ERA Backer

Editor, The Freeman:

Your Sunday editorial supporting the federal Equal Rights Amendment was an excellent step toward clearing up some of the confusion surrounding the ERA. I believe the state ERA was defeated because of fears, such as those you mentioned, that had nothing to do with the ERA. I wish you had published this type of information before the recent election.

Also, I have spoken with many people who opposed the state ERA simply because they expected and favored eventual passage of the federal ERA. It is unfortunate that this negative vote on the state amendment may be misinterpreted as opposition to the federal amendment too.

During an off-year election with a low voter turnout, the 57 to 43 per cent vote to defeat the state ERA can hardly be called a mandate of the people. Therefore I urge everyone to write state assemblymen and senators to reaffirm support of the Equal Rights Amendment on the federal level and to urge resubmission of ERA on the state level.

On The Right

The Quinlan Case

By William F. Buckley Jr.

The Karen Ann Quinlan case settled not very much, but brought to prominence the whole question of the right of the individual to command the movements of his doctors under dire circumstances. Dr. Milton Hefetz, a prominent California neurosurgeon, has written a subtle and informative book on the subject called The Right to Die. He testified in the Karen Ann Quinlan case on the side of the petitioners, Karen's parents, who begged the doctor to "pull the plug," the earthy term, for which however there is no satisfactory substitute conveying exactly that meaning. The distinction is between letting a patient die of natural causes, and causing him to die.

It is in the opinion of Dr. Hefetz the critical distinction, and it has a distinguished ethical lineage. Karen Quinlan's parents are Catholics, and before approaching the doctor to recommend that he turn off the respirator that keeps their vegetated daughter technically alive, they consulted their parish priest. Relying on a papal allocation 17 years old, that priest told them to go ahead. There was controversy up the line, when a Franciscan priest writing in Osservatore Romano called for keeping her alive. But a prominent Italian Jesuit disagreed. And everyone, including the judge, studied the relevant phrases of Pope Pius: quite properly, I should think, since ethics are best defined not by legislators, but by moralists.

The Pope began his address to the anesthesiologists in 1958 by saying that questions of science, such as when is some one in fact dead, are best settled by scientists. But "considerations of a general nature allow us to believe that human life continues for a for as long as its vital functions — distinguished from the simple life of organs — manifest themselves spontaneously or even with the help of artificial processes."

The question concerning which there is discussion is the emphasis that is properly placed on the word "or." It would appear, if read literally, to make the word "spontaneously" entirely meaningless. Either vital organs are working spontaneously, or they are not. If, as in artificial respiration, they are made to work by artificial processes leading to their resuscitation, after which they will resume working spontaneously, then the answer would be clear. Indeed, in John F. Kennedy Memorial Hospital vs. Heston a court order, against the will of her parents, a Jehovah's Witness to receive a transfusion of blood — which resulted in the girl's recovery.

There is crystallizing agreement that in cases of irreversible paralysis, doctors should be permitted to pull the plug if that is the will of the patient. The practical problem is ascertaining the will of someone in a comatose condition. We know what Karen Ann's parents believe she would wish. But we do not, in fact, have her word on the matter. Her attending physician — although one doubts that he would disagree that Karen, if competent would agree with her parents — is simply not qualified to transcribe the desires of an unconscious human being. And the judge ruled that her parents were not authorized to make so grave a decision in their capacity as surrogates.

What is coming up, then, is the question of how to anticipate such circumstances. Much thought has been given to the subject, and in another article I propose to pass along the specific form recommended by Dr. Hefetz.

Nicholas Von Hoffman

Frankenstein Still Lives

WASHINGTON—Would even the victims of Francisco Franco's political torture wish such a death on the old fascist as he is dying? The drugs that the 30 doctors reported in attendance have given him so ulcerated the aged dictator's gastrointestinal tract he's had to undergo two operations to have his guts cut out. At this writing, while literally gallons of blood are being transfused into him, his physicians are debating cutting off one of his legs. He dies a hacked and dismembered bloody bundle of tissue and tubes, but such are the ways of intensive care.

That other celebrated practitioner of Spanish torture, Torquemada, must envy Franco's doctors the power to prolong life in order to continue to inflict pain. Like them the dread master of the Inquisition believed that the pain he inflicted was for the benefit of his victims. In the intervening centuries priests have found gentler ways to minister to the soul but not doctors to the body.

What happens to the people when they put on the white smock of medicine? An absorbed fascination with technique of and for its own sake wipes out their common sense, their science and even their humanity. A remarkable new book by Peter Singer documents how narrow is the line in science between Dr. Einstein and Dr. Frankenstein. ("Animal Liberation: A New Ethics for Our Treatment of Animals," New York Review Book, 1975, $10.)

DISGUST AND DISBELIEF

Singer describes how we treat our agricultural as well as our laboratory animals. The first is so depressingly disgusting it may make a vegetarian out of you, while the second ought to make you question a scientific way of work that so objectifies living creatures that people can sit around labs, crushing the testicles of living cats, and believe they are serving the Goddess of Knowledge.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Reds' Air Threat To The Navy

By Jack Anderson with Les Whitten
WASHINGTON — A highly classified Pentagon intelligence study predicts the Soviets, Chinese and their communist allies will have almost 15,000 combat planes to hurl against the U.S. Navy by 1985.

The unsettling document, stamped "Secret," deals only with Soviet airpower available for an attack on the Navy. It expresses "normal uncertainty" about its ten-year forecast.

But its figures clearly show distinct communist air gains during the 80's. By 1985, the communist world is expected to have 14,605 fighters, bombers, and reconnaissance planes within range of U.S.

The document warns that the Soviets alone will have 7,810 combat planes able to attack U.S. naval ships and facilities. Navy forces. The other Warsaw Pact nations will have 2,230; China 3,725; North Korea 490 and North Vietnam 350.

Soviet strike forces will include hot new MIG variations such as the "Fishbed," "Flogger," "Fencer" and "Foxbat." Another 575 Soviet jets will be long-range strategic bombers, the study projects.

By contrast, the Navy is unlikely to have more than 2,500 tactical war planes. The Air Force may have 10,000 planes, but most would not be available for combat against a Russian attack on the Navy. There is no estimate of the 1985 strength of U.S. allies.

The study is the work of the hush-hush Defense Intelligence Projections and Planning team and is titled "1985 Air Threat to Navy Forces." It is based on the assumption that the U.S. Navy will continue to ring Europe and Asia with surface and undersea craft, and thus be vulnerable to attacks on patrol craft.

The communist air fleets will also have advanced technical features to plague the U.S. in case of conflict.

"By 1985 (U.S.) naval air strike forces will encounter a numerically superior enemy force equipped with beyond-visual-range air-to-air missiles," warns the Pentagon intelligence document.

"Future Soviet surface-to-air defense weapons will be highly mobile, equipped with multimode sensors and designed to degrade the (U.S.) Navy's defense suppression capability," the report concludes.

Footnote: The Navy has been shaken by Pentagon and Congressional efforts to impose the new F-18 fighter on them as their plane of the 80's. Navy experts complain in classified memos that the F-18 runs a moderate to high risk of being an unreliable performer.

REAGAN RUMBLE: Insiders with the Presidential campaign of ex-California Gov. Ronald Reagan advise us that former Nixon campaign workers are being recruited in droves.

While few have gotten top jobs, many are veterans of the dirty tricks campaign of 1972 that led to Watergate. Some are already at work contriving shows of enthusiasm for the handsome conservative.

RED HERRING: After we named Soviet U.N. Ambassador Yakov Malik as a Soviet spy master, our journalistic ethics were lambasted by Iona Andronov, a star writer for the Soviet's worldwide "New Times" magazine.

Now we have learned that Andronov's own journalistic ethics are on shaky foundations. Senior U.S. intelligence sources identify him as a dedicated KGB agent who poses as a newsmen.

ARM TWIST: Easygoing Rep. Jerry Patterson, D-Calif., a junior member of both Merchant Marine and Banking committees, has been assiduously seeking money from the industries he oversees.

Patterson scoured campaign contribution lists for bankers and shippers who come under his jurisdiction, then put the arm on them for $100 tickets to a fundraiser at the Disneyland Hotel. Helping him was his powerful chairman Rep. Ferdinand St. Germain, D-R.I., of the Financial Institutions subcommittee.

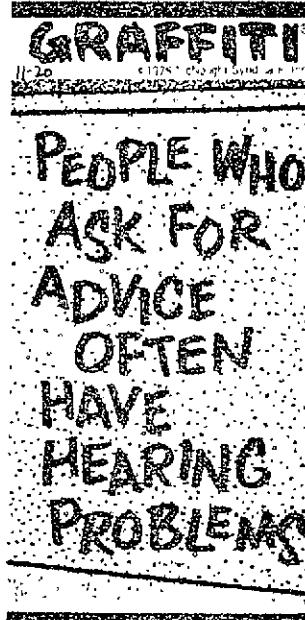

BRIBE PROBE: San Francisco U.S. Attorney James Browning will take time off from the Patty Hearst case later this month to probe a $50,000 bribe reportedly offered by Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos to a Congressional witness.

Browning began his grand jury investigation after ex-Marcos aide Primitivo Mijares gave us documentary evidence that a secret $50,000 bank account was opened for him by a Philippine diplomat.

Mijares has sworn the bank account was ordered opened by Marcos to keep him from testifying on Capitol Hill against the Marcos regime. The account was abruptly closed when he testified anyway. Marcos denies the bribe charge.

WASHINGTON WHIRL: Marine Corps generals and aides, who usually buy their own uniforms, are "wear testing" $27,000 worth of new uniforms courtesy of the taxpayers. Purpose: to see whether the $728 to $1,325 outfits should be adopted by the Corps. . . . The pro-industry Interstate Commerce Commission, which President Ford is now trying to shake up, has regulated trucking for 40 years but never formally revoked a trucker's license. . . . At Philadelphia's new William Green Federal Office Building, the handsome vinyl floors laid down only a few months ago have already been covered by the General Services Administration with $350,000 worth of plush carpeting. . . . The Armed Forces Radiobiology Research Institute smashed 12 live monkeys into a metal wall as part of a brain injury study, we have learned.

The 1973 research left some of the primates alive for days. The Pentagon says the monkeys were anesthetized before being put into the "impact sled."

KINGSTON

To keep you informed! To save you money!

Those are the major goals of The FREEMAN as this paper launches publication of an informative, new series of articles . . . A series in which The Freeman's own Consumer Testing Panel begins putting products of all kinds "On Trial" this week. As an antidote to (and, sometimes, in support of) manufacturers' claims about the wares offered in the Consumers Marketplace, this newsworthy series starts in the Life section of The Freeman this Sunday, Nov. 23.

Every other Sunday, our panel of area shoppers-and-testers will help you to become your own personal consumer crusader and chancellor of the exchequer — in one.

What to buy, and when and where to buy it, are the consumer's major concerns. By following our panel's product ratings, the household shopper can learn the tightfisted approach to buying for the family table and the household at large.

Pretesting hand soaps and detergents; prepared, packaged and freeze dried foods; cleaners and cooking aids; and a wide variety of other products, the panel will rate (and berate) the claims of manufacturing companies about quality and savings.

The man of the family, the kids — even the household pet who gets the left-overs will pass along their opinions to you through our panel of housewives. Is that new cereal really tasty and nutritious? Is that freeze-dried coffee a worthwhile substitute for a freshly-perked pot? Does that indigestion remedy actually pass the acid test? Would you use any of them again — or cross them off your shopping list forevermore?

The Freeman initiates this new series of every-other-Sunday articles with a panel that promises to judge products authoritatively, coupling shrewdness with brash irreverence.

Members of The FREEMAN Consumer Testing panel are Roberta Fingerman of High Falls, Ruth Martin of Woodstock, Doris Shultis of Ulster Park, Dot Ridgeway of Saugerties and a Kingston resident housewife, who will join them on the second and following rounds thereafter.

As our quintet of panelists picks and chooses — appraising waste and worth — this new series should prove a bonanza of monetary intelligence — giving our readers authentic, enthusiastic advice. It will be a series aiming for reliability of merchandise evaluations, dedicated to advice that will save you money.

Our panelists will serve as your financial mentors in the supermarket with their analytical judgments of products placed "On Trial." On alternate Sundays, then, we urge you to follow our product-testers into stores around the county, as they compare prices and brands of competitors.

The Freeman is confident this new series, CONSUMER VS. PRODUCT, will prove highly valuable to readers. Now, more than ever, it is important that you have up-to-the-minute, in-depth, unbiased consumer information. The Freeman hopes to provide this through its interesting new series. Look for our kick-off article this Sunday in the pages of Life and, before buying that newly advertised product, check out what the Freeman panel has to say, first.

Ever-increasing food prices are a fact of life that affect the bread and butter on every table. This new Freeman series could become a valuable guide to savings — and a lively and readable exploration into the hard facts about foods-and-products-of-all-sorts.

BOB STEUDING

Traveling Exhibit On the Kaaterskill

STONE RIDGE "Image of the Kaaterskill Region" is the title of a traveling art exhibition on this famous Catskill area, which will open Dec. 8 in the Visual Arts Gallery at the Stone Ridge campus of Ulster County Community College.

Presented by the Department of Visual Arts at the college, the exhibit includes original oils and sketches, old prints, literary quotes of the 19th century pertaining to the famous Catskill Clove region in Greene County, a map and recent colored photographs of the area.

At the opening reception at 2 p.m. on Dec. 8, Bob Steuding, an Associate Professor at UCCS and well-known poet, naturalist and hiker in the Catskills, will discuss the impact of the Kaaterskill Clove. This is available to the public without charge.

The beautiful Kaaterskill Clove has had a history of attracting many notable artists and writers through the years.

It was this region that Washington Irving had in mind when he wrote "Rip Van Winkle" in 1819. William Cullen Bryant and James Fenimore Cooper were just two more of the many writers who wrote of this varied and beautiful area.

By 1825, Thomas Cole painted his first romantic landscape of this region, which marked the beginning of the Hudson River School of Painting.

It was at the foot of the Kaaterskill Clove in Palenville that the artists and writers gathered to form the first art colony in 1842.

The attraction of the Clove is understandable, for each foot of the region provides a sight worthy of the poet's pen or the artist's brush.

Today's naturalist will find the photographs and art work in the exhibition especially pleasing. The color photos dramatically express the attraction the region achieved in the 19th and 20th centuries.

The "Image of the Kaaterskill Region" exhibit was made possible by the America the Beautiful Fund of New York. It was prepared by a group of Greene County students from materials loaned by the Greene County Historical Society.

The UCCS Visual Arts Department was able to obtain the exhibition through the assistance of the Bronx House Museum in Coxsack.

The Visual Arts Gallery at the Stone Ridge campus is open to the public free of charge from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday except during the Christmas and New Year vacation. For further information, contact Allan L. Cohen, chairman of the Department of Visual Arts.

LIFE TODAY

St. Nick Ride Upcoming

KINGSTON Although it is customary to regard Santa Claus as a myth, historically, he was Saint Nicholas, Bishop of Myra, who died in 343 A.D. Our Santa Claus is but an American distortion of the old Dutch name "Sant Niklaas" or Saint Nicholas.

Over the centuries there have been many lovely tales told of the Santly Bishop, and from them have evolved such customs as the Christmas stocking, giving of gifts at the holiday season and other joyous events. Originally the patron saint of sailors, the good saint was accepted also as the patron saint of children and as a giver of gifts. The Dutch children called him Sinterklass. As such the veneration of the saint was brought to the United States and to the historic Hudson Valley by its earliest settlers.

And so it was that the Dutch settlers carried on the tradition in this new land. December 5 was the eve of the birthday of the famed Sinterklass. The tribute to the saint on this date has been merged with a celebration of the birth of Jesus Christ on December 25.

The Dutch, however, hold separate celebrations, making the Saint Nick Eve a time of fun-filled gift giving while Christmas Day is a solemn reverent day of religious thanksgiving.

The legend, as told by the early Dutch colonists, tells that on the eve of his birthday St. Nicholas would chain the Devil (known as Black Peter) and bring him along as his servant, riding across the sky on horseback in a visit to all countries. They would drop candy gifts down the chimneys of all good children, into their wooden shoes set out beside the fireplace.

It was in 1949 that members of the Old Dutch Church decided to bring the traditional festivities back to the Hudson Valley. Since that time, every year on December 5, St. Nick and Black Peter have ridden their horses through the streets of uptown Kingston distributing candy to the children of the community. The ride terminates at the church yard of the Old Dutch Church at the corner of Wall and Main Streets. It is there that an open-fronted house is visible to all. The Dutch family in traditional costume awaits the arrival of St. Nick. The legend is read to the children and St. Nick, clothed in a scarlet bishop's robe and accompanied by Black Peter, garbed in velvet breeches and plumed beret and carrying a bundle of birch rods in his hand, arrive to the delight of all. The public is invited to attend this festive occasion scheduled to begin at 7 p.m.

Book Week and Exhibit At Stone Ridge Library

STONE RIDGE
The Stone Ridge Library is observing Children's Book Week, Nov. 17-23.

The first official Book Week began in 1919 to encourage reading and enjoyment of books in the home. Today, children's books are a very important part of the Stone Ridge Library, shelves holding several hundred books for children of all ages, line the walls of the Children's Room. There is also a Story and Film Hour which is very popular and will be attended, held each Wednesday morning at 10, for the pre-school child.

A newly-planned event will be an occasional Saturday afternoon film showing, for the children and adults.

Paintings by Dorothy C. Winchell, artist of Kripplebush, are on exhibit at the Stone Ridge Library during November.

Mrs. Winchell began by painting 80 of the houses in and around Kripplebush. She has also painted thirteen of the churches in the Rondout Valley, still lifes and landscapes until the total number of her pictures now exceeds 300.

Mrs. Winchell is a self-taught artist. She paints in oil free hand and with her left hand. Her work has been shown at the Stone Ridge Library Fair, for the Philharmonic at Manor Lake in Kingston, at Ellenville's "Art in the Square", at the DeLano's Gallery in Kingston at the Jarvis Gallery in Woodstock and the Kripplebush Museum.

PAW Casting For 'Gallows'

WOODSTOCK
"Gallows Humor," a modern theatre piece in two parts written by Jack Richardson, is next for the Performing Arts of Woodstock. It will be directed by Paul Cooper for an opening in January.

Casting for the black comedy will take place at the Woodstock, Elementary School Tuesday, Nov. 25 at 7:30.

The five roles to be cast are: Walter, a lawyer turned murderer, a mild man seeking eternal constancy and regularity; Lucy, a prostitute sent by the State to soothe Walter's last hours (she is a determined realist); Philip, the executioner, is a humble civil servant with a romantic flare; Martha, his shrewish wife, and the Warden, a hypocrite who cuts a pompous figure of authority and who tries to seduce Martha.

Anyone interested in trying out on Nov. 25 but who for any reason cannot do so should call Edith LeFever. An alternate day will be arranged.

There also is a need for understudy parts and others, who will be available to work backstage.

"Gallows Humor" has been chosen by PAW in keeping with its tradition of offering a diversity of theater styles.

"The Pursuit of Happiness" opened PAW's season at the Woodstock Playhouse and was a popular and highly successful Bicentennial offering. It will be touring in Ulster County in 1976.

Harvey At RVHS

STONE RIDGE
Jon Harvey, the celebrated mime, is coming to Rondout Valley High School Monday, Nov. 24, to give an evening performance beginning at 7:30 in the high school auditorium. Tickets may be purchased at the door or in advance at the school.

An evening of mime is a rare experience, and Harvey is a master of his art. He takes the nuances of life that often escape viewing and brings them into sharp relief. He creates worlds in simple gestures, and suddenly his audience sees humanity afresh. Along with the magic (or maybe an integral part of it), Harvey explores pain and reality. He will also show his film, "Once," a 12-minute study of a crippled comic book salesman on a streetcorner. It took Harvey three years to develop the character.

His list of credits is particularly impressive, considering this angularly-formed man is just 30. He is the star of "Once," an Academy Award short subject nominee, and was the subject of an hour-long TV special on Channel 13, "Portrait of a Mime." Last year, he was the first mime invited to perform at New York City's Museum of Modern Art. Harvey is also the winner of the Bronze Medal for Best Short-1974, at the New York Film Festival.

DEAR ABBY: Here among us Florida retirees, more and more of our widowed friends are "shacking up." If they marry, the widow loses part or all of her Social Security payments. Our problem is how to address these couples

"Mr. John Smith and Mrs. Robert Jones" is probably correct, but it sounds so stilted, and besides, I think old Bob would want no part of this whole deal.

"Mr. John Smith and Mrs. Mary Jones" not only is incorrect but also slightly salacious. Their mailman is a very straight-laced, conservative type, which makes matters worse.

Shacked up or not, these are very proper people, and we want to address them correctly.

Can you help? And please don't take the easy way out and suggest "Occupants."

FLORIDA RETIREES

DEAR RETIREES: The only correct way to address one is by his (or her) legal name. Don't worry about the mailman. His job is to deliver the mail, not to make moral judgments.

DEAR ABBY: Two years ago, my husband's brother died and left a widow. (No children.) We agreed to let her live with us for a while so she wouldn't be alone. (Their apartment held so many memories she didn't want to live in it without him — which was understandable.)

Well, it's now going on the third year, and she hasn't said a word about leaving. We do love her and didn't mind having her for the first year, but we want very much to be by ourselves now.

She dates a little and has made a good adjustment, and it's time she started to think about moving. But how do we accomplish this without making ourselves look like villains?

TOUCHY PROBLEM

DEAR TOUCHY: Tell her that you admire the manner in which she has overcome her grief, and you'd be glad to help her find another apartment. It's how you look to yourselves, not to others, that counts.

DEAR ABBY: We have a daughter-in-law who is stealing us blind, and we don't know what to do about it. She steals small items, such as saving-stamp books, small tins of tuna

and sardines, cosmetics — anything she can stick into her purse

We have mentioned having "misplaced" or "lost" specific items in her presence, hoping she will get the hint and quite stealing from us, but it has done no good

She is not in need of anything. Abby, I cannot understand why she steals from us. Perhaps she steals from others, too. I have seen her slip things into her purse, but of course I would never humiliate her by asking her if I could go through her purse before she leaves the house

The Bible says, "No thieves shall enter the kingdom of heaven," and I love my daughter in law and do want to see her in heaven

If you print this maybe our son will see it and recognize it as his wife. We haven't the heart to accuse her to her face.
HEARTBROKEN IN ARKANSAS

DEAR HEARTBROKEN: And what if your son doesn't see this column? This problem is much too serious to rely on "hints" and chance. Have a frank talk with your son immediately and suggest that his wife get professional help.

DEAR ABBY: Why should anyone be made to feel guilty for having mistaken a boy for a girl? I wouldn't let the kid put the onus on ME. I'd put it on HIM, where it belongs.

This happened to me once. I asked, "Well, if you don't want people to think you're a girl, why do you go around looking like one?"

AVIAN C. PALM SPRINGS

DEAR VIV: Thanks for a beautiful gender bender! Everyone has a pet name. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box No. 69701, A. 1, A. 1, 9069. Enclose stamped self-addressed envelope, please.

Energy Speaker

KINGSTON

Zephaniah Lodge of B'nai B'rith will have its regular monthly breakfast at 10 a.m. Sunday at Congregation Agudas Achim, 254 Lucas Avenue.

The speaker will be J.L. Salini, Shell Oil Co.'s White Plains retail marketing district manager. His subject will be "Current Developments in the Energy Situation."

All B'nai B'rith members and their wives are invited to attend.

UCBB Enrollees

KINGSTON Colony Liquor Distributors Inc. of Kingston has enrolled its employees in the Ulster County Blood Bank (UCBB). "This adds a welcome number of new donors to our steadily growing membership," said Arthur C. Chipp, UCBB president.

Chipp also noted that UCBB is now covering families residing in more counties than ever before, since Colony benefits go to their employees in Columbia, Dutchess, Delaware, Greene, Orange, Putnam, Rockland and Sullivan counties as well as Ulster County. "The demand for blood is increasing yearly at an alarming rate due to an expanding population and longevity of its citizens," Chipp said. "We cannot emphasize enough the pressing need for new donor members, and the hope that the general public will acknowledge by taking advantage of our very generous program and enrolling in it to help us meet this vital need."

Unlike other blood programs, Chipp pointed out, blood drawn from UCBB members remains in Ulster County for use in local hospitals and is not taken out of the county for use elsewhere, unless "in emergency situations, which is a common reciprocal practice among all blood-using facilities," Chipp said.

Anyone, regardless of age, physical health, or other factors, living or working in Ulster County or working for a company as noted above, is eligible for membership in UCBB. For information concerning individual or group membership, or to arrange for a film presentation and orientation, call the blood bank.

Temple Emanuel

Elizabeth Lipton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Lipton, will conduct her Bat Mitzvah Sabbath Service Friday, beginning at 7:45 p.m., at Temple Emanuel, 243 Albany Avenue. All interested persons may attend. Sabbath candles will be kindled by Floria Lipton. The Kiddush prayer will be led by Elizabeth and Marshall Lipton. Following services, the congregation is invited to the Oneg Shabbat, sponsored in Elizabeth's honor.

During services, the memories of the following persons will be invoked: Philip Motler, Felix Katz, Sophie Katz, Dr. Saul Ritchie, Louis Sampson and Rose Appel.

The community-wide Chanukah celebration will be held Sunday at 7 p.m. at Temple Emanuel. The entire community is invited for the event. The program will feature an original Chanukah production, written and directed by Paul Cooper, and performed by the Temple Actor's Workshop. Chanukah songs, kindling of the Chanukah lights and refreshments will also be included in the program. There will be no charge for admission.

The Adult Education Class — "Lifetime of the Jew" — will meet Monday at 8 p.m. Jewish courtship and marriage customs will be discussed. Any interested person may attend.

Chanukah officially begins Friday evening, Nov. 28. Persons wishing to purchase items before the holiday at the Temple Judaica Shop are asked to contact Dora Lurie or Doris Goldfarb.

Ahavath Israel

Religious services will be conducted at the conservative synagogue, Congregation Ahavath Israel, 100 Lucas Avenue, Friday at 8 p.m. followed by an Oneg Shabbat, and Saturday at 9:30 a.m. followed by a Kiddush.

The Oneg Shabbat will be sponsored by the synagogue's sisterhood.

At both services, the Mourner's Prayer will be offered for the following departed whose Yahrzeits will be observed during the coming week: Anna Friedman, Miriam Rosenberg, Joe Wasserlauf, Bella Jacobs, Mariam Goldstein and Mrs. Jacob Jobor.

All services are conducted by Rabbi Aryeh Lev Lupkin. Congregation Ahavath Israel's 39th Annual Thanksgiving Stage Show and Ball will be held this Saturday at 9 p.m. Set-ups and refreshments will be served, with dancing until 1 a.m.

The community Chanukah celebration will be held Sunday at 7 p.m. at Temple Emanuel.

Talmud Torah classes will not meet Thursday, Thanksgiving Day.

Agudas Achim

Candles are to be lit at 4:14 p.m. Friday. The Oneg Shabbat will take place at 7:30 p.m. Friday. This week the synagogue will honor the 12 families which have joined the synagogue in the past year. Saturday morning services, led by cantor Herman Slomovitz, begin at 8:30 a.m. The Bible portion to be read is "Vayislach," the story of Jacob and his sons.

Saturday morning the Religious School will hold its own Chanukah play and party at 11 a.m. The community celebration at Temple Emanuel will be at 7 p.m.

Adult education classes will be Monday and Tuesday evenings, as usual.

Services will be at 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. during the week, and Sunday at 8 a.m. and 7 p.m.

N-Plants Bring Flooding

KEY BISCAINE, Fla. (UPI) — A proliferation of nuclear power plants around earth may trigger an atmospheric heat buildup which could melt the Antarctic and Greenland ice caps, flooding many of the world's greatest cities, scientists say.

The catastrophic melting could occur in a matter of decades.

Those conclusions were drawn this week by 90 scientists from 10 countries at the First Miami Conference on Isotopic Climatology and Paleoclimatology.

"Unfortunately," said University of Miami marine geologist Cesare Emiliani, co-sponsor of the meeting with Nobel prize winner Dr. Willard Libby, "we have no conclusions on what would be a safe level of nuclear reactors."

Emiliani said total melting of the Antarctic and Greenland ice caps would cause the world's oceans to rise by 180 feet. "A complete melting is not likely to happen. But as much as 10 per cent or more of the world's land area might be flooded, including some of our most valuable arable lands."

He cited as examples of land areas that would flood, Italy's Po valley, Florida and vast areas of the U.S. Gulf states, Argentina and Siberia.

Emiliani said in an interview the peak of the earth's current heat cycle was reached some 6,000 years ago. Unless atmospheric heating due to nuclear reactors and rising carbon dioxide levels, accompanied by a decline in atmospheric dust, retards it, the advent of a new ice age may become apparent in a matter of centuries.

The conclusions were reached from a study of ocean sediments, cave stalactites and tree rings, all subjected to isotopic analysis under offshoots of the radioactive carbon dating method Libby discovered a quarter century ago.

Emiliani said he felt a melt ing of ice caps within a few decades is quite possible because he found something similar occurred at the end of the last ice age.

He has found evidence that about 11,600 years ago in North America "the ice cap pancaked, surged southward and began to melt rapidly, causing a rapid rise in the sea levels in a matter of years to decades."

"We are concerned that something of that same pancaking of the ice may be already occurring in Antarctica," Emiliani said.

she didn't get a lot of use out of it," Mrs. Diamond said.

"I corresponded with her, but besides from that I wished I would have met her. I hope to go to New York and put a plaque up for her. I don't know where she is buried."

"I'd like to meet the people who she was with — the land lord in New York, the people who took her in."

Mrs. Diamond learned of her inheritance when her half-brother read a story in Monday's edition of the Chicago Daily News about a New York attorney's search for Rose Zuckerman's heir. He realized it was Helen's long-lost aunt and telephoned her.

When asked what she would do with her new-found wealth, the north suburban Skokie housewife said, "With four children, we'll see what happens from there. We'll try to help other people. I hope, with God's will, I'll put it to good use for good people."

Mrs. Diamond is a clerk with The Reuben H. Donnelly Corp. Her husband is a court reporter.

She said she would keep working although it is no longer necessary. "I wouldn't give that up for nothing," Mrs. Diamond said.

"You got to keep yourself going. I don't want to change. I want to keep the same life I had before."

More than 700 Young Stockaders will be (and are) working on next year's bicentennial celebration, but not without direction. Coordinators were recently appointed including (L) Mrs. Edmund Tomaselli, Mrs. Robert McCourt, Mrs. Ward Ingalsbe and Mrs. James Myers. Youngsters from grades 2-12 are encouraged to join. Information is available from the Stockade Committee, UPO Box 1776, Kingston.

HIA Conducting Membership Drive

KINGSTON

Handicapped in Action (HIA), in conjunction with its ongoing membership drive, has issued a general invitation to all residents of the Kingston area to join the organization.

HIA was formed last year by the handicapped clients who are employed at Gateway Industries in Kingston. The group's purpose is to provide recreational, social and community oriented programs for all of the handicapped residents of the Kingston area.

In seeking a broader base of community support, however, president Kenneth F. Coombs has emphasized that the organization is not restricted to handicapped persons, and that HIA needs the guidance and support of persons covering the entire spectrum of the community.

As part of its membership campaign, the organization is currently planning a schedule of winter and spring activities and projects. Persons interested in assisting the organization can contact Coombs at Gateway Industries, or can attend HIA's weekly meetings, held each Wednesday from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. at the Gateway conference room, 27 Hoffman Street.

UCCC Receives Recommendations

STONE RIDGE

Ulster County Community College received 18 recommendations from a reaccreditation team from the Middle States Association which recently visited the campus.

Robert T. Brown, UCCC president, speaking to members of the nine advisory councils at a recent dinner meeting on the Stone Ridge campus, said he feels the final report from the association, expected early next year, will be a "positive one."

Brown said the team had found "an atmosphere of encouragement for innovation and change" on the campus and noted that the faculty was lauded for being "genuinely concerned" with improvement of instruction.

Brown revealed that current enrollment is 4,068, the highest ever, including 1,582 full-time students, 1,286 part-time students taking credit courses, and 1,200 students taking credit-free courses.

Other college officials addressing the meeting included Mrs. George F. Bushnell, chairman of the board of trustees; Dr. Robert J.

The Long Wait Is Over for Vizvary and His Senators

By Steve Kane

NEW PALTZ

Wednesday was a day that was a long time coming for the Ulster County Community College soccer team. The championship of Region XV, a prize pursued for seven years by the teams of coach George Vizvary, finally came to Stone Ridge. Ulster tore apart the defenses of the NJCAA's sixth ranked Dutchess CC and rolled up an 8-0 victory. With it came possession of the Mid-Hudson Conference title and a berth in the national tournament in Baltimore.

There was no question about the outcome of the game. There were no more frustrations for Vizvary. There were no shadows of ineligibility or disqualification threatening either team. There were no fights. It was just soccer, and there was no contest.

The Senators scored three easy goals on Falcon mistakes in the first 27 minutes of the game then proceeded to put on a display of ball control that dazzled Dutchess for the rest of the afternoon. Paul Rucker wound up with three goals. Segundo Zapater added two more, and Rick Derella, Oscar Rendon and Mario Austin each hit another. It was a microcosm of the UCCC season; Ulster got better as time passed.

"It was the only game we were out of all season," said a disappointed Dutchess coach, Bill Holland, who had brought the most successful DCC team ever into the contest. "I'm proud of my kids and the year we had, but today we were beaten by a superior team."

Ulster and Dutchess had played to a 2-2 tie during the regular season, but it was difficult to believe that after the game got underway. With both squads highly psyched, the play opened rapidly, almost frantic.

The pace destroyed a couple of quick Ulster opportunities, but it also left Falcon fullbacks out of position repeatedly. In the fifteenth minute Rendon chanced on such a situation and fired a shot off the pole. Rucker caught the rebound in front of the net and had plenty of time to send his first kick into the cage.

An Ulster lead was what Holland dreaded. "You can't give a team that good the momentum," he said. But Dutchess made it even easier.

Derella hit next, and it wasn't even a difficult shot. Too many

Walsh didn't have one of his better days, but the first two goals weren't really his fault. He could have stopped the third one, but he failed to hang on to Rendon's pass to Rucker right in front of the net. Rucker didn't even have to give the ball its final nudge.

Gifted with that three goal advantage, the Senators began to play their game. Zapater whipped Dutchess' Joe Curthoys in the right corner and scored unassisted to make it 4-0 at halftime. There was constant UCCC pressure right up to the intermission, and the Senators refused to slack off in the second half.

In the first half alone Ulster took 23 shots at the Dutchess net. That was 20 more than the losers got off, and goalie Leo Lynch didn't have to strain himself.

All the second half goals were unassisted. Rendon went past everybody down the left side and fired a running shot, past Walsh at 9:16. Two minutes later Rucker zoomed up the middle for his third goal. The Falcons were just burned out.

Zapater scored again on a 40 yard direct kick that Walsh mishandled, and after the subs came on Austin stole the ball at midfield and went all the way himself for the final tally.

Some past Ulster teams have gotten silly when running up a big score, but this one stayed cool. Vizvary was a subdued winner with a weak voice. "It was a goal for every year and one for next year," he said.

FREE KICKS . . . Steve Mason and Aldo Sergovic defensive standouts for UCCC. . . Dutchess' John Pavlos missed a penalty kick late in the game. It was his first miss in two years. . . New Paltz St. coach Bob Joly marveled at powerful foot of Tom Mulroy. . . Westchester coach John Yasinasac: "Ulster could have beaten anyone today." . . UCCC took fifth straight MHC crown. . . Dutchess finished 13-2 overall.

Search Is on for Winner's Replacement

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (UPI) — Charley Winner had not left the New York Jets' training site Wednesday when speculation about his replacement began and it read like a "Who's Who" of National Football League coaches.

Winner, who took over under less than ideal circumstances two years ago when he succeeded his father-in-law, Weeb Ewbank, as head coach, was fired Wednesday after the Jets lost their sixth straight game and seventh in nine games this season. Ken Shipp, the Jets' 46-year-old offensive coordinator, was named to replace him, strictly on an interim basis.

General Manager Al Ward is the man who must recommend a new coach to the Jets' Board of Directors and he'll begin looking for a replacement immediately.

"I'm looking for someone with the ability to lead," Ward said. "I have a completely open mind, whether it be a college coach or a pro coach. I have no prejudices. Kenny understands he is coaching on purely an interim basis. I don't know where Charley went wrong. There was just no movement."

"We have some people in mind and their names are so obvious I won't bother to mention them."

The names are plentiful and they include some of the best known coaches in the country. The big handicap is the fact that the Jets are looking solely for a coach and many modern coaches also want the general manager's duties included in their positions. Some even want an option to purchase a percentage of the club, which the Jet ownership steadfastly refuses to consider.

The top names include Don Shula of the Miami Dolphins, George Allen of the Washington Redskins, Ara Parseghian, former Notre Dame coach, Penn State Coach Joe Paterno and Hank Stram, former coach of the Kansas City Chiefs. The leading assistants under consideration are Monte Clark of Miami, Ernie Stautner of Dallas and Walt Michaels of Philadelphia.

Shula has feuded with Dolphins owner Joe Robbie in the past and would also ask for the general management and a piece of the club. It might take more money than the Jets are willing to pay for him to leave a Miami club he led to four straight division titles and three Super Bowls, two of them winning efforts.

Allen reportedly has been trying to renegotiate his contract and Redskins owner Edward Bennett Williams, who isn't too happy with Allen's free-spending practices, may let him go. But Allen also would want to be general manager and the Jets' management, which isn't too free with its money, might not put up with Allen's high salary policies.

Parseghian, who quit at Notre Dame last season for health reasons, may already be committed to Philadelphia but still stands out as a strong possibility. Paterno, a native New Yorker who turned down the head coaching job with the Pittsburgh Steelers before it was taken over by Chuck Noll, might consider returning home as a pro coach, especially in view of the new equal opportunity legislation which forces colleges to divert more money to women's sports.

That supposedly is one of the reasons why John McKay will leave Southern California to coach the expansion Tampa Bay Buccaneers next season.

Stram was fired by Kansas City last year after a 15-year tenure as head coach and reportedly is eager to leave the broadcast booth and return to coaching. Clark is one of the most sought-after assistants in the league and Stautner worked under Ward when they were both at Dallas two years ago. Michaels, the former defensive coordinator for the Jets who was considered Ewbank's heir apparent in New York, quit when Winner was named head coach and went to the Eagles. He was in the running for head coaching positions at Cleveland and Kansas City last season.

The leadership qualification is a major one for the Jets. One of Winner's biggest criticisms was that he was too easy with the club and that a lack of discipline resulted.

The decision to fire Winner came only three weeks after Club Prediscent Phil Iselin insisted there would be no coaching change considered until the end of the season.

Shipp, a native of Old Hickory, Tenn., has been with the Jets since 1973 after two years at New Orleans. His main responsibility has been with quarterback Joe Namath and his receivers.

"You can't go out and make wholesale changes at this stage," he said. "I hope to talk to every player individually before Sunday and appeal to their pride. The effort just hasn't been very good and I don't think the players have been playing up to their potential. If we need more discipline, then I'll do it and if you ask me if I'll be tougher than Charley was, the answer is yes."

"When you're losing and losing bad, it's a natural tendency to let down. But they're getting paid and getting paid big money to go out and play every week regardless of our record."

Shipp's task will not be easy. He must pull together a defense that has surrendered the most points in the league—293—and he must do it against top competition. The Jets face St. Louis, the NFC East leader, Sunday and then go against the Super Bowl Champion Pittsburgh Steelers the following week. They also must face Dallas, second in the NFC East, on the final day of the season.

For New NFL Teams

Strong Start Seen

NEW YORK (UPI) — Seattle and Tampa Bay, the two newest franchises in the National Football League, have been provided with a player allocation plan that is designed to insure them of being the strongest first-year expansion teams in league history.

NFL owners Wednesday finalized a player dispersal program which will make available the largest number of quality players ever for an expansion draft. For the first time in its history, the NFL will include both active and reserve players in the expansion pool, giving the two new clubs a selection of more than 475 veteran players from which to stock their teams.

"In the past only players who started the first league game were made available for expansion," said NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle. "None of the other players was available. But this year we are including the players currently on the reserve list plus players from the active roster."

"It will be the largest pool of quality players ever made available. Cincinnati, when it expanded, had only 88 players to choose from and only 154 were available for Atlanta and New Orleans."

The expansion pool will consist of 338 players from the active rosters of the existing 26 NFL clubs plus upwards of 150 or more players from the reserve list. There are currently 139 players on the reserve lists of NFL clubs but that figure will grow before the end of the season. The reserve list consists of injured and retired players plus players who are in the armed forces or NFL draft picks participating in the Canadian Football League.

Before the expansion draft begins, each of the current 26 clubs will be able to withhold two players from its Oct. 28 reserve list. Then, each club can freeze 30 players from its active and reserve list before the draft begins.

The expansion draft, which will be held a few days prior to the Pro Bowl game in late January, is arranged so that no more than three players may be selected from any team.

Once a player has been selected from a specific team, that team can freeze one more player on its roster before a second player may be selected. If a second player is chosen, another player may be frozen.

"The idea of allowing teams to freeze additional players after a player is selected from its roster prevents teams from getting hit too hard at one position," said Rozelle.

Rozelle and Thompson both made it clear that the plans regarding the expansion draft were subject to approval between the owners and the Players Association.

"The decision to expand is not a negotiable subject," said Thompson, "but when you're dealing with employees, it is subject to collective bargaining. All of these plans will be negotiable."

Seattle and Tampa also should reap a bonanza from the college draft, which will be held in early February.

The two new clubs will pick first or second in each round of the college draft and, in addition, each will get two extra picks at the end of the second, third, fourth and fifth rounds. After the two new clubs pick at the start of the sixth round, 158 players will have been selected and 30 of them will have gone to Seattle and Tampa.

Sixth Man Hits Six, Doesn't Draw Sixth

The folks in Atlanta like to think John Drew is one of the best No. 6 men in the National Basketball Association.

Fortunately, for the Hawks, however, Drew never got No. 6 Wednesday night.

Playing with five fouls over the final 14 minutes, Drew, the Hawks' "still learning" 21-year old 6-foot-6 forward, hit for six overtime points to spark a 104-98 Atlanta victory over the Golden State Warriors.

After the Hawks blew a chance to win it in regulation time when Tom Henderson missed two tips at the buzzer, Drew took charge in overtime, accounting for the bulk of Atlanta's final 10 points with two jump shots and two free throws. That made it 100-96 and Tom Van Arsdale clinched it by hitting a 19-footer with 29 seconds left.

"Everyone played well for us," said Hawks Coach Cotton Fitzsimmons, "especially the guys off the bench. Drew was an offensive machine as usual. He's going to really be something when he learns everything about this game."

Elsewhere in the NBA, Detroit downed Portland 120-114, Philadelphia beat Kansas City 113-103, Los Angeles dumped Houston 118-110, Milwaukee edged Phoenix 96-94 and Seattle whipped Chicago 97-87.

In the American Basketball Association, Denver breezed past St. Louis 119-106, Virginia surprised the New York Nets 110-100, San Antonio ambushed Kentucky 113-106 and Indiana routed Utah 130-110.

Pistons 120, Blazers 114
Eric Money came off the bench and hit for 15 points in the final period to rally Detroit over Portland. Money hit 7-of-7 shots and added a free throw during a 10-minute span of the final quarter to help Detroit break an 87-87 tie and forge a 12-point lead.

76ers 113, Kings 103
George McGinnis, with 28 points, led a balanced Philadelphia attack that saw five other Sixers hit for double figures in the victory over Kansas City. Billy Cunningham had 20 for the 76ers, Doug Collins 19, Steve Mix 14, Coniel Norman 12 and Harvey Catchings 11. McGinnis also had 17 rebounds and six assists.

Lakers 118, Rockets 110
Lucius Allen penetrated Houston's defense for 11 points in the first three minutes of the second half to ignite Los Angeles' win. Held scoreless in the first half, Allen, averaging 13 points per game, wound up with 15. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar was high man for the Lakers with 28 points and 20 rebounds.

Bucks 96, Suns 94
Brian Winters scored 20 points, including seven in the fourth quarter, to help Milwaukee squeeze by Phoenix. The Bucks led by as much as 89-80 with four minutes left but the Suns rallied to within 95-94 with five seconds to go before Milwaukee got possession. All five Buck starters hit in double figures.

Sonics 97, Bulls 87
Fred Brown's game high 25 points enabled Seattle to hand slumping Chicago its seventh straight loss—longest since 1969. After allowing the Bulls to close to 76-75 with six straight points early in the fourth quarter, the Sonics, led by Brown's six points, out-scored Chicago 12-3 over the next 4:30 to put the game away. Rookie Bruce Seals had 21 points and Tom Burleson 19 for Seattle.

ABA
Squires 110, Nets 100
Virginia, amid renewed reports of financial woes, nonetheless rallied to win only its second game in 14 outings this year. High scoring rookie guard Ticky Burden was the biggest nemesis to the shocked Nets, scoring 32 points while veteran Willie Wise added 22. The win also marked a successful debut for Bill Musselman, who was named Squires' coach earlier in the day.

"It was such a hurried thing," Harriman said of the involvement of the black group in the club financial crisis. "It will take a little time to work out the details. I don't anticipate any problems."

only their second win of the season against 12 defeats. Questioned about Saunders' comments, Squires public information officer Steve Harriman said, "I'm not in a position to make any official statement, but I don't think they have actually given us the check yet."

"It was such a hurried thing," Harriman said of the involvement of the black group in the club financial crisis. "It will take a little time to work out the details. I don't anticipate any problems."

Musselman, 34, coached the San Diego Sails for 11 games before the folding on Nov. 11 with a 3-8 record.

Only hours after the announcement, Musselman was out on the court and guided the Squires to a 110-100 win over the New York Nets. It was

Squires Still Aren't In Clear

NORFOLK (UPI) — Reports that the Virginia Squires are alive and well appear premature.

The head of a group of local black businessmen credited with preventing the ABA franchise from folding earlier this week says his group has not yet given the club a dime.

"Nothing is final," Kirk Saunders, general manager of the Norfolk Investment Co. said Wednesday. "No money will be released until we are sure there's adequate security by the Squires."

Saunders said he plans to meet with Squire general partner Van Cunningham today to "iron out some of the details and clear up some of the misunderstanding."

At a news conference attended by Saunders Tuesday, the Squires announced that his group had made a "substantially" investment in the club that guaranteed completion of the season.

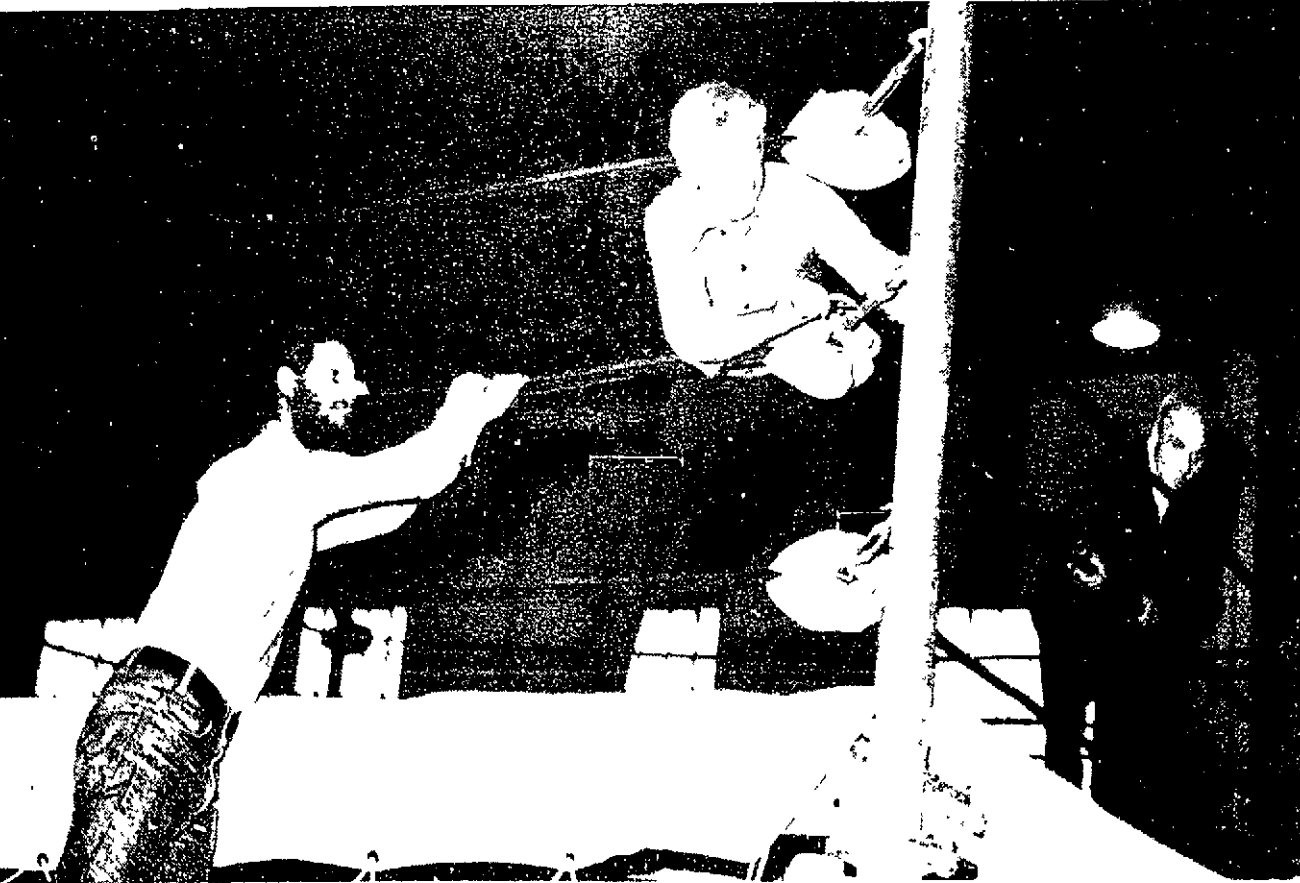

The Squires did not release the group's investment, but the figure was reported to be close to $200,000.

Squires General Manager Jack Ankerson appeared unperturbed by Saunders' comments, saying he did not anticipate any problems. Earlier Wednesday, Ankerson named Bill Musselman as the Squires new head coach, replacing Al Bianchi who was fired earlier this month.

Musselman, 34, coached the San Diego Sails for 11 games before the folding on Nov. 11 with a 3-8 record.

Only hours after the announcement, Musselman was out on the court and guided the Squires to a 110-100 win over the New York Nets. It was

This Year Toys Found to Be Safer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Government safety officials have decided not to publish their annual list of banned toys this year and have dropped their program of sending volunteers into stores before Christmas to check for dangerous toys.

The reason, according to Consumer Product Safety Commission officials, is that toys have become increasingly safer.

There are still hazards, one expert said, but the "horror show" examples of injury-causing toys that prompted

Congress to crack down several years ago no longer exist.

The last published list, put out in October 1974, contained nearly 2,000 banned hazardous toys. Some 15,000 copies of it were sent to toy stores and to consumers during last year's Christmas shopping season.

"We found that a lot of people were assuming that if a product was not on the list it was safe," one official said. "That's not necessarily true. We can't find all the hazards and there is no pre-market testing required."

"This year we don't believe there are any outstanding problems representing unreasonable risk with toys," she added.

The commission said the list was somewhat technical and of more value to the expert than to the average consumer. It also said corrections to or deletions from the list frequently never caught up with it and buyers were taking it as "gospel" in some cases where the hazards subsequently had been corrected.

The "consumer deputy" program which sent volunteers to stores to check shelves against the list and to look for other potential problem toys has been dropped this year, the commission said, because last year's effort "found very few banned toys for sale and we would prefer to place our emphasis this year on educational programs and material."

But Booze Lets Us Down

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Hundreds of thousands of bottles of liquor, wine and beer have been recalled during the past three years for problems including underfilling, mislabeling and asbestos contamination, the Treasury Department told Congress Wednesday.

None of the recalls was ever made public at the time.

While most of them involved distilled spirits, there is every reason to believe the beer and wine industries have the same problems. But there is no way of knowing because breweries and wineries are seldom if ever inspected, the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms (BATF) said.

The recalls were listed in a report made by the BATF to a House Government Operations subcommittee at the start of hearings into the agency's decision not to require that ingredients be listed on the labels of beer, wine and liquor.

Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal (D-N.Y.) chairing the hearing, said the agency is about to formulate a new policy under which it will announce such recalls, either by press release or by periodically publishing a list.

The BATF report shows there were 401 recalls involving hundreds of thousands of bottles since 1972. Of those 79 per cent involved liquor and 19 per cent wine. The bureau said it did not believe any of the "discrepancies involved jeopardy to the consumer's health."

Some instances listed in the report:

— Inspectors discovered in 1973 that Hiram Walker & Sons for six months "had been underfilling on the average. It was not possible to recall any underfilled bottles that may have been shipped."

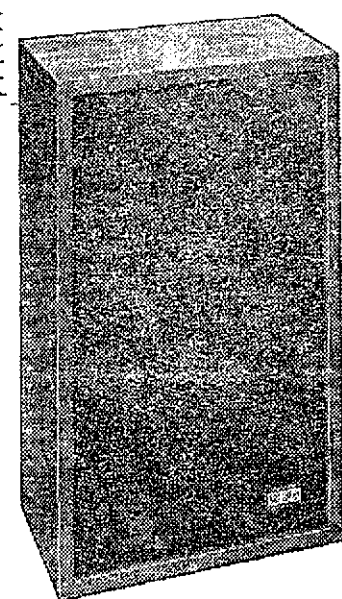

— About 990 cases of "Old No. 8 George Dickel" Tennessee sour mash whisky was recalled in January of this year because of "proof discrepancy."

— About 1,000 cases of Mateus rose wine distributed by Pearlstein Distributors were recalled because the labels did not show the alcoholic content, the importer nor the correct net contents.

— In 1972 asbestos fibers were found in "Clark's Five-Star Brandy" from American Distilling Co. It was not recalled and an unknown quantity was involved.

VISITS (Q.) I visit my grandparents every weekend. They live about 10 miles away. I don't mind driving there, because I love them very much. It's just that they want to see me every weekend and I work and never have time for myself except then. I don't know what to say to them and not hurt their feelings. I'm sure you see my problem. — 17 in Florida

(A.) Your devotion to your grandparents is admirable and I am sure they appreciate it. Not many teen-agers, either boys or girls, are so faithful. I am afraid. Continue to visit them, but less frequently. When you do see them tell them about your friends, both male and female, and your activities.

Also write them often. This way they can share in your life without dominating it — which they should not do.

MIXED TEAMS: (Comment) Two girls wanted your opinion on girls playing with little league teams. Well, I'm a girl and I played with boys in little league last summer. I was the only girl on the team. Counting me, there were 16 kids on the team. If I made a mistake the boys didn't laugh at me. They laughed with me. They helped me at hard times and I helped them. We also bought treats for each other.

We really had a lot of fun together. We took the wins and losses together as a team. We all had our coach to thank for the wonderful team we had. — Girl Player in Pennsylvania play West if he held exactly two trumps and at least three clubs and three diamonds.

(A.) I am happy to pass on your good news to Teen Forum readers. I am confident that the details of male-female participation in sports can be worked out to the benefit of all.

He took his queen of diamonds, ace of hearts and queen of clubs. Then he led a club to dummy's king and cashed the ace-king of diamonds and king of clubs. Now he led and ruffed the last club.

West saw that it was hopeless to overruff and discarded a diamond whereupon South simply threw him in with the king of trumps. He was caught in the same end play.

Woodstock Budget Passes With Local Tax Increase

WOODSTOCK The 1976 Town of Woodstock budget, complete with an estimated 22 per cent local taxation increase, was passed unanimously by the town council Tuesday night.

Reportedly slashed after an earlier public hearing, the budget was altered upward slightly Tuesday night before passage. The total amount to be raised by town real estate taxes was set at $658,622, up more than 50 per cent in two years.

The 1974 figure was $411,660, and the present budget $526,995. The '76 budget is based on the town's recent reassessment that boosted the equalization rate from the mid-40s to the 130s, stated town clerk Marjorie Harder. Translated through any system of ratios, the impact will be felt through the fact that the town government seeks an extra $126,000 locally over 1975 while the tax base has not been able to keep pace.

The board resolved to buy parking space in the central hamlet for $18,000 from Alex Stokas. The area stretches from the present parking lot behind Houst's Department Store to Tannery Brook Road behind Tinker Street buildings and it is estimated that from 65 to 70 parking spaces can be in the lot, reportedly less than one half acre. Entrance and egress routes have yet to be finalized.

Les Walker was appointed to fill a vacancy on the Civic Arts Council. Town officials are seeking candidates to fill two more vacancies on the seven-person council, and interested people were asked to apply.

Trust Fund For NYC Proposed By Buckley

WASHINGTON, D.C. A trustee administering federal funds to New York City after default is Senator James L. Buckley's (C-N.Y.) answer to the budget dilemma.

He commented this past weekend that the people of that city are realistically faced with three alternatives: Governor Carey's plan; the Banking Committee solution; and his own offering.

Senator Buckley's evaluation of the three found the Carey plan "would impose harsh taxes on the people of the city and New York State and, as far as can be ascertained, would not meet the short term needs of the city. The Banking Committee plan "would impose punitive taxes and unacceptable federal control."

Buckley's plan, calling for the federal government to administer funds through a trustee, was termed by his office to be "fiscally responsible, true to the federal principle, compassionate to the people of the city, and can be implemented without imposing new taxes."

The Conservative senator said he would support federal assistance to the city to meet short term operating deficits, as he has previously stated, if the Carey plan is implemented at the state level and the city does not decide to file a petition of insolvency.

Rondout Wants Later Figures

KERHONKSON After a difficult budget season in 1975, the Rondout Valley board of education will try a different tact in '76 and hope for just cause to celebrate the bicentennial along with everyone else.

The board resolved Tuesday night to set the first budget vote back a month from early May to June 8 in order to have a better chance of receiving state aid figures before the budget is made up. Said board clerk John Basten, "It's getting very difficult to get the figures by early May."

Legally, the board can set the vote anytime between May 1 and June 30. The problem with scheduling it too late in June is that if the first budget is defeated there would be little time to schedule an alternative before the fiscal year expires, necessitating a contingency budget at least temporarily.

So the board was squeezed toward the middle.

Members have good reason to be concerned about and sensitive to voter reaction. The people marched to the polls four times during the summer, chopping down successive budget offerings with abandon until the largest crowd of the year was able to tack on a couple of items above contingency figures in September.

The board is making another determined effort to get around the district and meet voters of different neighborhoods. It has instituted a policy of holding board meetings at various schools. From the Kerhonkson School Tuesday, the board travels to Accord School for its Dec. 16 meeting.

In other action trustees approved a hike in non-resident tuition almost $200 to $1,100 per year for grades K-12; for state aidable special education students the fee is only $130. The fee for health services billed to districts of students attending private schools in the district (such as St. Peter's in Rosendale) was set at $42.70.

Two scholarship Fund directors were appointed to five-year terms administer dispensation of scholarships: John Hall, to replace Robert Davenport; and Joanne O'Connor to succeed herself.

A triennial visit of the Middle States Evaluation Committee was approved by the board, a necessary prerequisite to accreditation by the group. No dates for team visits have been set.

A Title IX statement will be issued shortly by the district noting conformance with provisions of the law banning sex discrimination.
